

EUTOPIA Student Career Ambassadors Present: Intercultural Communications Workshop

Tuesday, 11th of June, 13.00 – 14.30, Faculty of Computer and Information Science.

As participant in international mobility, you'll be exposed to a different environment and interact with students from various backgrounds, but what does that mean for you? What challenges will you face? What can you expect, and what information do you need before entering a foreign environment?

Join us for Intercultural Communications Workshop and you will learn:

- How people from different cultures think and why they are different from you.
- How to communicate with people from various backgrounds.
- How to work in a team with international students, such as in project teams.

What benefits will you gain from the workshop?

It will make it easier for you to work in international projects. We must recognize that we live in a global environment where physical distance is no longer relevant. Even Slovenian companies employ staff from all over the world, where, as young graduates, you will experience working in international teams and collaborating with partners and clients from all over the world. The knowledge and experiences you gain from this workshop and your international mobility will be invaluable.

The workshop program includes:

- Fun games on the theme of intercultural differences.
- Presentations and interactive discussions on concepts of intercultural communication and differences.
- Networking opportunities to meet fellow students who, like you, are planning international mobility.

Join us and expand your skills in intercultural communication, which will benefit you in both academic and professional settings.

The workshop will be led by Vesna Gračner, Head of the International Office at the Faculty of Computer and Information Science and will be conducted in English.

"The intercultural connection workshop was conducted in a very interesting and innovative way. It opened my eyes to new approaches to accepting others and thriving in a foreign environment. The topics and activities we covered during the workshop were so engaging that I thought about them long after the event. Additionally, I had the opportunity to meet other international students, which was a great pleasure. I would definitely attend the workshop again."

Eva, a student who attended this workshop.
